ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT

“The community plays an important role in the development. Krannert is like a family. I had a son in the second year of the program. Everyone, my adviser, faculty, program office, were very considerate of the challenges I faced at that time. The community feeling also helps with approaching faculty with different research ideas.”

“Purdue University’s MS Economics program is designed for professionals from a wide range of backgrounds. It aims to enhance students’ ability to analyze data and to evaluate, optimize, and forecast economic and business outcomes. The program introduces cutting-edge statistical tools and empirical methodologies. While the program is more quantitatively oriented, the program also provides flexibility and resources that enable students with less quantitative backgrounds to develop the necessary skills to succeed. Rewarding outcomes await our graduates. Alumni have established careers in the financial sector, public policy, public sector, academia, and many other fields.”
